

You fight the good fight
You fight the good war
You fight to be right
You fight to restore
Why should I believe a word that you say
It was just a game that you don't wanna' play

And I say
It's wearing me down, I realize
It's all in my head now, now, and I realize
It's not what you've done
As much as what you've said

You walk a good walk
You run a good race
You talk a good talk
'Cause you try to replace
Messages of loss and all that's sacred
Tell me you should learn to love my hatred

And I say
It's wearing me down, I realize
It's all in my head now, now, and I realize
It's not what you've done
It's what you said
It's wearing me down
It's wearing me down
Wearing me down
Wearing me down
Wearing me down
Wearing me down

And I say
It's tearing me down
It's all in my head now, now
It's not what you've done

It's what you said
It's what you said
What you said
It's what you said
