

Look him in the eye and tell him it's fine
Say it's all in her mind
And it surely will be better soon
Cause right now things are wild
She's sure that the ceiling is cottage cheese
And it's clear that she's higher than the moon
Lois, on the brink of reality, is here
She can't remember her name
Lois, on the brink of reality, is here
Will she go insane now

She's lost all sense of time
She's drifting away into limitless space
And her black eyes see brighter than the sun
And suddenly she's fine
She gives me a hug as we lie on the rug
And our evening has only begun